Course Work

A course or courses that introduce topics related to teaching at the college level. This course must be approved by your Department and the Associate Dean for Graduate Education and Research in the College.

The minimum course work is expected to be one semester-long course. The course or courses most suitable will be determined by the student and the Guidance Committee Chair, Department Chair and Associate Dean for Graduate Education and Research. The courses are likely to be found in the College of Education such as: TE 831, Teaching School Subject Matter with Technology; EAD 861A, Adult Learning; EAD 861B, Strategies for Teaching Adults; EAD 871A, Academic Programs and Instruction in Higher Education; and EAD 871B, Collegiate Contexts for Teaching and Learning. The student will be responsible for determining the current content of the proposed course(s) and eligibility for enrollment.
